Vangelis Lidakis is the first producer from Crete's Archanes region to explore low-yield, organic farming and artisanal winemaking. The delicate Kotsifali and powerful Mandilaria varieties are part of a winemaking heritage on Crete that began at least 3600 years ago.

Tasting notes:

Intense, earthy, dried fruit nose and palate, medium-bodied with high acidity. A spectacular food wine reminiscent of red Burgundy with the added presence of herbal notes typical of Crete's unique terroir.
